Concert at Takoma Park.

An enjoyable concert was given Saturday evening at the residence of Mr. H. A. Cady for the purpose of raising funds for the erection of a new Episcopal church at Takoma Park, and was largely attended by the residents of the Park and by a large delegation from Washington. Miss Lizzie Ballock presided at the piano. The singing of Miss Virginia Moodey, of Washington, was enthusiastically received. The young Ford sisters in banjo duets surprised and delighted everybody, and the Misses Addison and Goulays were very effective in recitations. etly. Why the Parks are Not Safe.

To the Editor of THE EVENING STAR: At about 5 o'clock last evening a well-known lady went out with her husband to walk off a headache. Going through Dupont circle she was suddenly thrown almost off her feet by a youth of about seventeen years, who, with other grown-up boys, were engaged in rude. boisterous plays, endangering the limbs of quiet passengers. The lad, running at full speed, struck his head with great force against the lady's cheek bone, causing her to see stars. She was led home to a few days of seclusion with a bruised face and a scarred head. Unless order and decency can be enforced in the public walks we would advise ladies and chil-dren, even with male protectors at their sides, to avoid them. In their own back yards they may at least hope to escape injury.

Slight Fires.

An alarm from box No. 151 was sounded last night about 11 o'clock for fire in Huyler's candy store, No. 1103 Pennsylvania avenue, addidate for public printer. Very respectfully, toining THE STAR office. The fire started in your obedient servant, E. W. Fox. joining THE STAR office. But for the promptness of Chief Parris and his men, serious consequences might have resulted, as the cellar was stored with inflammable material.

Last night about 9 o'clock, fire was discovered in the basement of Hamburger's clothing store, No. 621 Pennsylvania avenue. The fire originated from the furnace, which it is thought became overheated. Office Sutton sent a local call to No. 2 engine house, but before the company responded the flames were brought under control with the chemical extinguishers. The damage is estimated at about $100, beside the damage to the stock by smoke. The building is owned by S. F. Merrill.

PRISONERS PASS THROUGH THE CITY. - Deputy Marshal H. C. Moffatt, of the eastern district of North Carolina, passed through this city this morning on his way to the Columbus, Ohio, penitentiary, with two prisoners—S. S. Noble, white, and Jas. E. Abbott, colored, who are under sentence of one year each. Some months ago Noble was in his cabin when revenue officers appeared to search his plantation. The deputy says that Noble did not know who the men were, and when ordered to throw up his hands he did so, but he had a shot-gun in one hand. The weapon exploded, and a sleeve of the revenue officer's coat was torn off. The negro is under sentence for robbing the street letter boxes in Newberne. They stopped at the first precinct station in this city, and had breakfast, and left on an early train for Columbus. Mr. A. S. Richardson, of Newberne, is AMUSEMENTS.

Albaugh's Opera House.—A select and appreciative audience witnessed the first performance of M. Constant Coquelin and his capable colleagues at Albaugh's last night. The lower boxes were filled with parties made up of Mrs. Cleveland, Secretary and Mrs. Whitney, Senator and Mrs. Cameron, Miss Leiter, Judge John Davis, Mr. Wm. Endicott, jr., and Mr. Woodbury Blair, on the left of the stage, and Judge and Mrs. MacArthur, Miss Dorothy Phillips, Mr., Mrs. and Miss Bancroft, Count Sala and the Misses Schenck, on the right. In the first piece on the bill of the evening, Mme. De Girardin's one-act emotional play, "La Joie Fait Peur," Coquelin made the deepest impression, and showed most decisively the excellence of his natural gifts as well as the truth and finish of his methods. His is the perfection of that art which conceals art—that art which clothes itself over so completely in the role assumed that one forgets en-tirely it is acting that is being wit-nessed, and surrenders with ready and unques-taining interest to the emotions of the passing moment. Nothing and the ways thereughly moment. Nothing could be more thoroughly natural, more entirely free from the suspicion of exaggeration, more quietly and completely in accord with the spirit of the scenes than M. Coquelin's Noel. It was not until later on, when he was seen in the monologue and in Mo-liere's little comedy, that the audience could fully perceive how much the comedian had in," he said. done in fitting himself in appearance and ac-tion to the role of the old servant; but from his first almost tremulous advent on the scene in "La Joie Fait Peur" there was no escaping the quiet potency and rare artistic charm of impersonation. There was not about it, in some cities." perhaps, the pervasive warmth and geniality that such an unctuous comedian as Boucicault naturally more or less familiar with the would give, but while this may have been a wandering paths which, as a rule, form the loss in one way, it can hardly be doubted that, all things considered, M. Coquelin's creation should be awarded the higher artistic merit. In the little playful passages of the piece, with Blanche and Adrien, the sly, heavy fun of the faithful old servitor was capitally portrayed, and the difficult emotional passages were managed with a restrained yet powerful effectiveness that moved the audience deeply. Nothing could be finer or more touching than Noet's long monologue, in which, with a passionate mingling of struggling hope and bitter fear, he sought to convince himself that his beloved young master could not be dead. Then, at the close of this scene, when the voice he so longed to hear sounded behind him the sudden and powerful revulsion of feeling was portrayed with a restrained intensity that thrilled the house like an electric current. At the close of the piece M. Coquelin and his colleagues came forward in answer to enthusiastic applause. All the participants in "La Joie Fait Peur" deserve warm commendation for their artistic work. Mile. Stuart, as Blanche, was very pretty and natural. As Mathilde Mile. Gilbert showed admirable emotional capacity. Mme. Coquelin made a manly and attractive Adrien. Between the two short plays in the bill M.

Patry's Mme, Des Aubiers was strong in its passionate reserve of grief, and the younger Coquelin recited in a charmingly easy and good-natured way three short selections, which from Red Men's hall, C street, at 7:30 o'clock.

Hading will make her first appearance with M. Coquelin in Georges Ohnet's "Maitre De Forges."

At the close of M. Coquelin's recitation of "Le Chapeau," in the monologue, a mammoth bouquet of flowers, sent from the White House conservatory by Mrs. Cleveland's order, was presented to the comedian.

NEW NATIONAL THEATER.-Mr. James O'Neill has found the play of "Monte Cristo" so suc-cessful as a money maker that he seems to have no desire to tempt the public with a new piece. As presented at the National theater last night "Monte Cristo" was well performed and well staged. Mr. O'Neill gave to his part the ease, grace and power which have won him his present high position in the dramatic profession. He has surrounded himself with a good company, all of whom acquitted them-Miss Iola Williams and others also sang very selves creditably. The scenery and costumes were new, much of the former being elaborate and very effective. The attendance last night was very large. "Monte Cristo" will be given every night and at matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

HARRIS' BLIOU THEATER.-Mr. Oliver Doud Byron is always sure of a hearty welcome from numerous admirers when he appears in Washington, and the large audience at Harris' last night was, as usual, ready with its greeting when the actor came upon the scene in "The Inside Track." They Did Not Rob the Chinaman.—John Cady, alias James Williams, and John Marr were acquitted in the Criminal Court yesterday of the charge of stealing $40 and a can of opium from Sing Wah. Cady and Marr claimed that they had gone there to buy opium, and that while some discussion took place as to the quantity given, there was no robbery on their part.

BISHOP KEANE'S ASSOCIATE. Talk With the Vice-Rector of the Catholic University.

Rev. P. J. Garrigan, the recently appointed vice-rector of the Catholic University, has been in the city for several days. As the rector, it is considered that the funds of the university new university will form no small responsibility. Father Garrigan is a guest at St. Matthews' parsonage, where he will remain at least until Father Chapelle returns from Europe. His plans for his future residence here have not been definitely fixed. He has been spending the first days of his stay in seeing the city. It is a new city to him and it is hardly necessary to add what he told a STAR man last evening, that he thinks it is a very beautiful city. "It is unlike any other city I have ever been

"In what respects?" asked the listener. "Well," was the reply, "I may say in the harmony and completeness of the plan. Then there are your broad streets. Why, the sidewalk here is nearly as wide as the entire street Father Garrigan lives near Boston and is thoroughfares of that city.

"In what other respects is this city distinguished from others?" continued the listener. "I am not presumptuous enough to imagine that my opinions are more than surface deep on a subject that I know so little about," observed Father Garrigan in a rather deprecating way, "but still I am only giving my impressions. It has seemed to me in walking about the city that there are a great many more men to be seen than women. Perhaps the weather has been disagreeable since I have been here. and I rather suspect it has been," he added smiling.

His listener assurred him that the population was not limited to one sex, and that the census showed a larger proportion of women than Father Garrigan laughed and good naturedly refrained from saying anything about the weather, past or present. In reply to a question he said that he had visited the site of the new university where the workmen are engaged in rearing the walls of Divinity hall. Father Garrigan said that it was a grand building, beautifully located and being constructed in a most substantial manner. He thought that the weather would prevent the roofing of the building this fall. There was now about a year left in which to complete the work and he thought all of that time would be needed. Father Garrigan said that there was nothing new in the affairs of the university. The routine work was going on

"The idea of the university seems to be well received among the people I have met," he added. "Of course there are some who have not quite come up to it. It is a little in advance of them. Like every thing of the kind it wins favor in certain directions slowly. The clergy, with but few exceptions, recognize the importance of the new university, and it can be said generally that the projects meets with the co-operation and sympathy of every

Father Garrigan has not yet attained his fiftieth year. He has what may be called a good face and his manner is winning and attractive. He has the faculty of gaining the confidence of people with whom he comes in contact, and the congregation at Fitchbury. Mass., of which he was pastor, parted from him with regret.

THEY WILL STOP THE SMELL. Georgetown Medical College Authorities Make Good Promises.

As published in yesterday's STAR, the members of the faculty of the medical department of the Georgetown university have promised to do all in their power to render the dissecthouse. Dr. G. L. Magruder, dean of the faculty, last evening sent to Health Officer Townshend a letter in reply to the notice of the 15th inst... with reference to the sanitary condition of the building. The letter says:

"The ventilating apparatus of the building consists of a large central shaft through which ascends the iron smoke stack of the furnace, so connected as to be always hot, and hence creating an ascending current of air on the shaft. The registers of the various rooms open into this shaft, which therefore sucks out from the rooms any air which they may contain. When the fire is not burning in the furnace the ascensional current in the flue is produced by means of a range of gas jets (Bunsen burners).

"The advantage of this system is, as you are aware, a constant in-draft from the windows toward the shaft, no outward current from the windows being possible when the shaft is in operation. The appended report of Mr. Paul J. Pelz, the architect who designed the system, will explain this to you more fully. On Saturday evening, the 17th instant, an exhaustive and careful test was made of the ventilating apparatus by Prof. Marvin, of the United States signal office, and Mr. Pelz, using for the purpose an air meter. There were present Dr. B. G. Pool, of your office; Messrs. Dent and Herbert, who constructed the heating and ventilating apparatus, and others. The report of Prof. Marvin and Mr. Pelz is herewith enclosed. By it you will see that when the full power of the ventilating shaft is exerted the air in the dissecting room is completely removed every fifteen minutes. It is discharged into the upper air above the level of the surrounding buildings. This was no extraordinary or unusual effort of the ventilating apparatus, but with the fire in the furnace lower than usual, the

"So far, therefore, from this being an illyventilated room, it is one of the best in the city. Even were noxious gases generated in it they would be immediately carried out and discharged where all the ventilating pipes of the city sewers discharge—above the roofs of the houses. The suggestions of Mr. Pelz for increasing this most effective ventilation have, however, been carried out. The faculty are fully aware of the grave nature of the charges that have been made with reference to the building. If any cause for complaint has occurred it is believed to be not in any way connected with the ventilating apparatus, but from inattention to duty on the part of those entrusted with the sanitation of the premises. The most scrupulous and constant care will be taken to see that no cause for complaint here-after exists. You are doubtless aware that nany popular errors are current with regard to the sanitation of a room of this character. Any noxious gases arising from the decomposiion of animal matter can be instantaneously destroyed by the use of proper disinfectants. Nor need these disinfectants be themselves odorous. It is, therefore, quite possible to conduct the operations absolutely indispensable to anatomical study in a medical college without in any way affecting the health or offending the sensibilities of the most fastidious neighbors. It is the intention of the faculty to se-cure this hereafter, and, in order that both yourself and the public may be satisfied that it is so, you are respectfully requested to have the premises carefully inspected by an author-ized officer at least once a week while the dis-

Accompanying the letter is a communication from Paul J. Pelz, the architect who designed the building. His specifications, he said, were carried out except in one or two particulars. The ordinary fish-tail burners, he said, were used instead of the Bunsen burner. He recommends several modifications in the ventilating apparatus.

The result of tests is given by C. F. Marvin The result of tests is given by C. F. Marvin, of the United States signal service. He states that the current of air in the ventilating shaft, without the gas being lighted and with only the furnace cylinder to create heat, was 133 feet per minute, and that the air in the dissecting per minute, and that the air in the dissecting room would be changed 2.8 times per hour. With the gas lighted the velocity of the air current was 200 feet per minute, and the air was changed 4.2 times per hour. The tests in other rooms and halls was with similar results.

In the matter of the injunction case between George M. McCardell vs. George L. Albert. late publishers of the Williamsport Leader, in which the bill was filed September 7, the opinion and decree of the court of this county has just been filed. The case is one involving some points of general interest. Previous to the filing of the bill in September last the Leader was published by McCardell and Albert as partners. Difficulties having arisen between partners touching the financial management, &c., of the business, and the presses, types, material, &c., belonging to the defendant, he excluded the plaintiff from all participation in the conduct and management of the paper, or participation in its receipts. The plaintiff filed his bill asking for an injunction and the appointment of a receiver to make sale and distribution of the firm's assets. The court, and he expected that everything would be in readiness for the opening next fall. in its decision perpetuating the injunction and appointing Adam S. Garis as receiver to make appointing Adam S. Garis as receiver to make sale, observed that although it appeared from the evidence in the case that the material of the evidence in the case that the material of the office was the property of the defendant alone, yet the "good will" was an essential part of the firm assets, in which the plaintiff had a clear right to participate. A sale of the paper, together with the good will, material, &c., was therefore ordered to be made in ten days. It is rumored that a weekly newspape will shortly be started at Hancock, this county shortly be started at Hancock, this county. This will give Washington county eight weekly papers and two dailies, with several monthly publications-certainly sufficient to enlighten

France and the Slave Trade.—In the French chamber of deputies to-day, M. Goblet, minister of foreign affairs, stated that France had not engaged to co-operate with England and Germany in a blockade of the coast of East Africa. Both powers, he said, had requested permission to search ships flying the French flag which were suspected of being engaged in the slave trade or in importing arms into Africa. The government had replied that to search for arms was a natural result of an effec-tive blockade, but it could not recognize the right of England or Germany to search all vessels under the French flag. Certain abuses due to the slave trade might have arisen, but they did not have the gravity with which it was sought to invest them. They were not to be compared with those perpetrated in the in-terior or on the coast of North Africa;

The Cunarder Umbria, which arrived at Queenstown Sunday evening, made the fastest eastward run on record. Her corrected time was six days, two hours and fifty-five minutes. The best eastward run of the Etruria is six days, four hours and forty minutes, made in April

CATARRH

Is a complaint which affects nearly everybody, more or less. It originates in a cold, or succession of colds, combined with impure blood. Disagreeable flow from the nose, tickling in the throat, offensive breath, pain over and between the eyes, ringing and bursting noises in the ears, are the more common symptoms. Catarrh is cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strikes directly at its cause by removing all impurities from the blood, building up the diseased tissues and giving healthy tone to the whole system.

STUFFED-UP FEELING.

"For several years I have been troubled with that terribly disagreeable disease, catarrh. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla with the very best results. It cured me of that continual dropping in my throat, and stuffed-up feeling. It has also helped my mother, who has taken it for run down state of health and kidney trouble. I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all as a good medi-cine." MRS. S. D. HEATH, Putnam, Conn.

FOR 25 YEARS.

"For 25 years I have been troubled with catarrh in the head, indigestion, and general debility. I concluded to try a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me so much good that I continued its use till I have taken five bottles. My health has greatly improved, and I feel like a different woman." MRS. J. B. ADAMS, 8 Richmond street, Newark, N. J. N. B.-Be sure to get

THE CHINESE AND AMERICAN OPIUM SMUG-GLERS.—The toree Chinamen and two Americans who were arrested Saturday night for smuggling opium from Canada to the United States were brought before the United States commissioner in Buffalo, N. Special Customs Agent Reynolds says that from $10,000 to $15,000 worth of smuggled opium has been brought into Buffalo by the syndicate. Miss Maud Harrison, the well-known sou-

For the relief and cure of COUGHS, COLDS, BRONCHITIS, GENERAL

WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA,

DEBILITY. And nearly all Pulmonary troubles, and if taken in time will arrest the progress of Consumption

In putting this preparation on the market no claim i made for originality, but a guarantee is given of the absolute purity of the medicines used and the skillful manner in which they are prepared. The Cod Liver Oil (Norwegian) used is from the crop of '88. This I purchase in the original packages, thereby avoiding any possible adulteration in transit. The Hypophos phites are from Standard Manufacturers, and need no comment, but the following facts are important:

1st. The medicines used in Douglass' Emulsion are absolutely pure.

2d. Each bottle contains 50 per cent pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil, thoroughly emulsified, very palata-ble, and will not disorder the most delicate stomach.

3d. It is better and cheaper than nine-tenths of the so-called Emulsions, and costs but 75c, for a large bot-tle, or 3 bottles for $2. 4th. Should you become dissatisfied after using, the price will be cheerfully refunded.
